

Public artist Peter Maris carving a logo stone for Clay Cross celebration event's balloon race prize.

Balloons released to mark scheme launch

Balloons and spirits were flying high at a community open day to celebrate the start of a £22m town regeneration scheme.

Over 500 people came along to the event on Friday to mark the start of the Clay Cross redevelopment, which includes a new Tesco store, bus station, health centre and link road.

Residents had the chance to discuss the project with the developers and NE Derbyshire District Council officers while children tried their hand at arts, crafts and virtual graffiti. There were also art and history displays to admire at the event in the Social Centre.